DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. This application is in condition for allowance except for the presence of claims 1-12 that are directed to an invention that is non-elected without traverse. Accordingly, claims 1-12 have been cancelled.

Response to Amendment

2. The amendment filed 19 October 2006 has been accepted and entered.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 13-17 are allowed.
4. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Regarding claims 13-15, the prior art of record does not disclose or reasonably suggest, along with the other claimed limitations, a radiographic image recording medium comprising: namely, the specific layering in the following order of a shock resistant member layer; a wavelength conversion layer; a photoelectric element layer; a glass plate substrate layer; and an additional shock resistant member layer. Prior art such as Okada teaches the layer of instant application but fails to disclose or reasonably suggest the use of shock resistant member layers above and below the recording medium. Prior art such as Izumi, while teaching the use of shock resistant member layer in recording media, teaches away from the use of a glass substrate in combination with a shock resistant medium to decrease weight and improve flexibility. Prior art such as Okada teaches the use of protective layer above and below recording media, but primarily for the purposes of scratch resistance and as a moisture barrier while providing no motivation for making the protective layers shock resistant.

Regarding claims 16-17, the prior art of record does not disclose or reasonably suggest, along with the other claimed limitations, a radiographic image recording medium comprising: namely, the specific layering in the following order of a shock resistant member; a wavelength conversion layer; a photoelectric element; and a glass plate substrate. Prior art such as Okada teaches the layer of instant application but fails to disclose or reasonably suggest the use of shock resistant member layers above the recording medium. Prior art such as Izumi, while teaching the use of shock resistant member layer in recording media, teaches away from the use of a glass substrate in combination with a shock resistant medium to decrease weight and improve flexibility. Prior art such as Okada teaches the use of protective layer above and below recording media, but primarily for the purposes of scratch resistance and as a moisture barrier while providing no motivation for making the protective layers shock resistant.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments, see Applicant Arguments pages 9-15, filed 19 October 2006, with respect to claims 13-17 have been fully considered and are persuasive. The rejection of claims 13-17 has been withdrawn.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

US 5,198,685 A – Kitani discloses radiographic recording medium using a shock resistant layer edging between a protective glass substrate another substrate to insulate a photoelectric conversion layer inside the edging and between the substrate. Kitani does not disclose or reasonably suggest a wavelength conversion layer.
